

Homework 5 - Scriptures Map Foundation

I guess one thing I learned is about the awesome website You might not need JQuery website. I haven't really had much experience using jQuery but I think this website might help me learn about some more great things that JavaScript can do without relying on jQuery.

I also kind of learned how to keep variables or methods private by declaring them inside a function.

And while it may not be related to the Scripture mapping project, I am also learning how to work with code in Vim. I'm still a bit slow but I recognize that it's a great text editor.
